

The Story

Multiverse of Money · a companion for the MCs

25 November 2026 · Build your script on this story

Rules and numbers: the Official Rulebook always wins

1 The story in one minute

Mahanagar never sleeps. Its Metro hums under the Aravallis, its glass towers in Cyber City glow all night, and its money moves faster than its traffic. Then, one evening, every screen in the city goes green.

Professor Kalyug, once Mahanagar's most brilliant economist, now its most dangerous villain, has opened the Multiverse of Money: a fracture where every rupee spent creates a new future, and every bad bet erases one. At Zero Hour tonight, he will collapse every future but one. If no hero is standing in that future, Mahanagar falls.

The city has one answer. It has handed ₹50 crore each to brand-new hero agencies: teams of founders with no hero yet, only nerve and a budget. In one evening they must prove their minds, buy and build a hero, win the people, survive the Vault and face Zero Hour. Only one agency becomes Mahanagar's Hero Agency of the Year.

> The line to remember
> "Every rupee is a choice. Every choice is a universe. Tonight, only one universe survives."

2 Cast

Who	In the story	How the MCs use them
Professor Kalyug	The villain. Calm, theatrical, always one step ahead. He thinks heroes are bad investments and enjoys proving it.	Never seen, only heard: his "transmissions" interrupt the show between rounds (a voice line, the projector going green). He taunts, never insults people.
Mahanagar	The city: Cyber City towers, Hauz Khas ruins, the Metro, the Aravallis. Loud, funny, stubborn.	The audience are its citizens. Get them to cheer, gasp and chant ("Hero ya zero?").
The hero agencies	Start-ups of founders, each with an ID (A01, A02 …) and ₹50 crore of city funding.	Call them by agency name and ID. Celebrate bold moves, tease the cautious, never mock a person.
The Fund Ledger	The city's incorruptible record of every rupee.	"The Ledger never lies." Use it to end any argument about money.
The MCs	Mahanagar's emergency broadcast: the voice of the city during the crisis.	Open each round like a news flash; close it like a cliff-hanger.

3 The evening in five acts

For each act: the story beat, what is really happening in the game, and lines to build on. Rewrite the lines in your own voice; keep the facts.

Prologue · The broadcast (5:30 pm)

Story: the city wakes up to Kalyug's threat. The agencies are founded tonight. Game: welcome, rules, the countdown on the projector.

> "Good evening, Mahanagar. This is not a drill. At 8:10 tonight, Professor Kalyug collapses the Multiverse of Money. Between now and then, these agencies are all we have."
>
> "Fifty crore each. No hero yet. Three hours. Let's find out who was born for this."

Act 1 · Hero Ya Zero? (the prelim)

Story: Kalyug scrambles the city's minds: only agencies that think fast and clear get funded. Game: 15-question live quiz on phones; faster correct answers score more; the top 16 go through.

> "Phones out, captains. Kalyug is jamming the city. Every second you hesitate, he gets stronger."
>
> "Speed is money. A right answer at the buzzer is worth half a right answer at once."
>
> Between questions: "Hero… ya zero?" (the crowd answers "HERO!").
>
> After the board: "Sixteen agencies are still standing. The rest, Mahanagar thanks you."

Act 2 · Power Bazaar (the auction)

Story: the black market of the multiverse opens: HQs, Suits, Gadgets and Sidekicks from a hundred futures. Spend well and a hero is born; spend badly and the fund is gone. Game: Insider Tips window, Marquee lots, Secret Identity Bids on slates, Last Call, Breaking News and Team-Ups, Jugaad Kits.

> "Welcome to the Power Bazaar, where every hero has a price and every price has a consequence."
>
> The unmask call: "Slates up on my count. Three, two, one… mask utaro!"
>
> Insider Tips: "For two crore, a glimpse of tomorrow's headline. Sixty seconds. Buy it on your phone, or stay in the dark."
>
> Breaking News: read each headline like a live news flash, then pause for the groans.
>
> Jugaad Kit: "No HQ? No problem. Mahanagar runs on jugaad. Eight crore, please."
>
> Reminder to plant: "Fund left counts half at Zero Hour. Spend like it."

Act 3 · Operation: Skyline (posters and the tower)

Story: the people of Mahanagar must believe in your hero, and the hero must prove it can defend the skyline. Game: poster duels voted on Instagram stories; build a block tower from memory, build a slingshot, one shot to knock a tower down; the top 10 Tower Scores go to the Vault.

> “A hero nobody believes in is just a costume. Show the city your hero.”
>
> “Ninety seconds to memorise the skyline. Then Kalyug wipes it from your mind.”
>
> Before each shot: “One shot. One lane. Mahanagar is watching.”

Act 4 · The Doomsday Vault (Round 3)

Story: the finalists enter Kalyug’s Vault. Each holds a sealed Mission File: inside, the future their hero will meet at Zero Hour. Some futures are glorious, some are disasters. Files can be stolen, peeked at, protected. Trust is the rarest currency. Game: the one-time Force Field window, four puzzle missions, winner’s choice (Swap, X-Ray or ₹6 Cr), Chai Pe Charcha deals, fines.

> “Open your Mission File. Read it. Now put on the best poker face Mahanagar has ever seen.”
>
> Force Field window: “One shield for the whole Vault. Sixty seconds. Nobody will know who bought one… until it is played.”
>
> When a Force Field blocks a swap: “Denied! The shield holds. And the winner walks away with nothing.”
>
> Chai Pe Charcha: “Deals, lies and chai. Everything is allowed, except opening someone else’s file.”

Act 5 · Zero Hour (the results)

Story: the multiverse collapses. Only one future survives, and only one agency is standing in it. Game: the results are announced 3rd, then 2nd, then 1st; then the final leaderboard; then the Doomsday cover for photos.

> “Agencies, this is Zero Hour. Power, luck and every rupee you kept, all come down to this.”
>
> 3rd place: “Holding the line at the edge of the multiverse…”
>
> 2nd place: “One step from saving the city…”
>
> 1st place (long pause): “Mahanagar’s Hero Agency of the Year is…”
>
> Close: “Professor Kalyug is gone… for now. Mahanagar, get on stage: it is photo time.”

4 Running bits and callbacks

4.1 Kalyug's transmissions. One short voice line (or a line the MC reads "intercepted") between rounds: "You spent twelve crore on a cape? Delightful." It keeps the villain alive without a costume.

4.2 "Hero ya zero?" The crowd chant for the whole evening; use it to restart energy.

4.3 "The Ledger never lies." The answer to every money argument, said with a smile.

4.4 Jugaad. Mahanagar's superpower; the Jugaad Kit is its proof.

4.5 Multiverse callbacks. "In another universe, you kept that fifty crore." Use it when a big bid lands.

5 Tone

- English with Hinglish round names and jokes; quick, warm and a little dramatic.
- Humour targets situations, never people, communities or bodies.
- Real superhero names belong only in quiz questions. The story's own heroes are the agencies.
- Never state a score, rank or amount that is not on the projector or the website; when in doubt, "the Ledger will confirm".

6 Facts the MCs must get right

Fact	Value
Hero Score	Power Level × Battle Outcome + Fund left ÷ 2
Starting fund	₹50 Cr per agency (Round 1)
Insider Tip	₹2 Cr, one per agency, bought on phones in a 60-second window
Jugaad Kit	₹8 Cr each, Power 2, for every missing category
Poster duel bonus	+₹5 Cr, only if the winner also reaches the top 10
Force Field	₹5 Cr, one per finalist for the whole Vault, bought privately in a 60-second window; blocks one swap
Winner's choice	Swap, X-Ray or ₹6 Cr; a blocked swap uses up the choice
Fine	₹5 Cr for opening another agency's Mission File
Who advances	Top 16 after the prelim · top 10 after Round 2
Results	3rd, then 2nd, then 1st; organisers' decisions are final